BEN KNAPPER ROBBED OF $30 IN LAGRANDE

LaGrand has been having a visitation of burglars of late and a recent issue of the Observer gives the following, which will interest the many friends here of the parties concerned:

U. S. Land Office Receiver Colon R. Eberhard received a visit from the burglars and his guest, Ben Knapper of Joseph, was robbed of $30. In keeping with the usual line of LaGrande citizens during the robber scare, Mr. Eberhard had locked the house on N. avenue before retiring, neglecting, however, to fasten a small window high up on the wall of the bath room. He had no suspicion that entrance could be gained there, but nevertheless at some hour of the night entrance had been effected through the small window near an occupied bed.

The robbers found their way to Knapper and daringly enough seized a pair of trousers which Mr. Knapper had worn during the evening. The contents evidently were not removed at that time, for this morning when Mr. Knapper went to dress, he was amazed to find a roodly portion of his wearing apparel missing. A search revealed the trousers hanging on a clothes line in a neighboring yard. Thirty dollars in cash had been removed with a purse, but a knife and a bunch of keys had been unmolested. Otherwise nothing had been taken from the house.

are from Pasco to Walla Walla; from the Salmon city—Pasco branch to Grangeville, and others."

This in conjunction with the recent statement of President Strahorn of the North Coast, leaves little doubt of the identity of the mysterious road.

Strahorn at Pendleton

Pendleton, Oct. 27.—Robert E. Strahorn, railroad man and man of mystery, who is promoting the North Coast road, was in this city yesterday on a trip from Omaha to Spokane.

He refused to divulge the source of his backing. He said the purpose of the men behind the North Coast was to extend the line into Central and southern Oregon at some future time. He admitted that a party of engineers were working in the country east of Milton and Walla Walla.

Strahorn was accompanied by S. F. Pitman, chief engineer of the North Coast.

WHAT FRA ALBERTUS SAYS.

Elbert Hubbard has just been to Kirksville, Mo., the home of the founder of osteopathy. There he met Dr. Still, and there he studied his methods. This is a part of the verdict that he reached:

"Osteopathy is nominally the science of the bones. Diseases come from maladjustment, a pressure on nerve substance by bone substance.

"Through manipulation, a right adjustment is brought about, nerves act normally, circulation is equalized, the secretions flow, elimination follows—the man is well. The 'manip' have a still further use. They impress the patient with the fact that something is being done for him. It is the outside manipulation versus the internal chemical explosion.

"Dr. Still was almost alone when, thirty years ago, he lifted a stern, warning voice against drugs, calling attention to the fact that when the drug had a direct or primary effect that was known, it also had a secondary effect that could not be foretold.

"Very naturally the medics said things about Dr. Still, and not being able to meet his arguments, contented themselves by calling him bad names. The gentle aspersions of the 'owhiskered ones' was to say that he was crazy.

"Now Dr. Still has won. He is rich; he is honored; and he is beloved. He is thought well of in his own town. A man who earns all the money he wants, who works with his hands, who sleeps well and eats well, and who is generous and kindly, isn't exactly insane, even though he does not dance on order of Madam Granly."

church is awakened, the members quickened and the forces united in aggressive work, will the people outside the church become interested. A good revival always quickens the public conscience, uplifts the moral atmosphere, arrests men in their wrong thinking and gives them a vision of God who stands ready to forgive their sins and who longs to dwell in them and walk with them.

This campaign is being conducted along practical and reasonable lines. Dr. Pratt appeals to the conscience and good sense of every thinking person. No clap-trap methods are used and no cunning devices are employed to entrap people.

The attendance has been good and even through the week there have been evenings when the rink has been well filled. The interest is daily deepening. No church in town could begin to accommodate the people. In fact the auditorium we now have will be taxed to its limit. But come and bring your friends; a blessing is in store for you. If you would get the most, come regularly. Do not miss.

There will be no service Saturday night as the evangelist rests on that evening to be ready for the heavy duties of Sunday.

STATE W. C. T. U. CONVENTION.

The 26th annual state convention of the W. C. T. U. met in Hood River, Tuesday, October 5. The sessions were held in the First M. E. church and closed Friday noon, October 8, State President Mrs. Henrietta Brown presiding.

One of the most important matters that came before the convention was the matter of outlining a campaign that will unite the W. C. T. U. with the general temperance workers of the state in the effort to make Oregon "dry" at the next election. The state membership increased 536 during the past year, the greatest annual gain in the history of the state.

One hundred and twenty-five delegates were present. More counties were represented at this convention than at any similar gathering.

The county reports indicate a large growth in the temperance work throughout the state.

Each county president, assisted by her delegation, illustrated the product of the county by some fruit, vegetable, or product, showing its particular specialty.

The united effort of the convention will be to increase the membership, and to organize local unions. The feature of Wednesday evening was the address by Mrs. L. L. Shepard, state president of the Utah W. C. T. U., on "The Boy Problem."

The following state officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, Mrs. A. W. Unruh; vice president, Mrs. Henrietta Brown; recording secretary, Mrs. Ida Marsters; assistant recording secretary, Mrs. Helen Harford; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Ward Swope; secretary "Y," Mrs. Eva C. Wheeler; treasurer, Mrs. Hattie Shane.

The delegates were well received and very pleasantly entertained and all report a delightful time.

from concessions, revenues and other rentals. After all debts have been paid, at least a hundred thousand dollars will be left to apportion among the original stock holders. In review of the success of the exposition, the Post-Intelligencer says: "As a simple matter of justice, it ought to be said that the newspapers of the state helped to make it a success; indeed, no other single influence has contributed more to the success of the exposition than the influence of the intelligent and progressive newspaper makers of the state."

One of the most necessary internal improvements in the Northwest is the opening of the upper Columbia river. The state is now engaged on spending $50,000 in the vicinity of Kettle Falls. The North Central Washington Development League has called a meeting in Wenatchee for the purpose of memorializing Congress to assist in the work. By making the entire stream navigable an important trade highway from the interior to tide water, will be opened, on which traffic can be carried cheaply.

The summer months have seen a large increase in Washington bank deposits. The report of Bank Examiner Mohundro shows that on September 1, Washington banks held $85,864,629.71 as against $79,778,161.96 on June 23. This is a gain of $6,086,467.75 in ten weeks time. Nearly every county in the state shows increases in deposits, loans and cash on hand.

The people of Odessa are sure that patience is a valuable virtue. When the railway commission investigated local conditions, they did not kick for a new depot, but decided to leave it to the Great Northern Railway, on the grounds that it would know best when conditions justified a new station. President L. W. Hill heard of this conservatism and immediately ordered the erection of a $20,000 building as a reward for their patience.

Fertile land for grain, hay, sugar beets, vegetables, fruit; abundance of water, splendid climate, greatest body of timber in Eastern Oregon, unrivaled winter and summer range, great stock country and the mountains full of minerals.
